Local and Personal Items

Miss Hannah Onarud of San Francisco, arrived in Oyen from that city last Tuesday and is visiting Mr. and Mrs. John O. Bale.

Mr. P. A. Moodie, of the Bank of Toronto staff, left Oyen last Saturday, for Glenavon, Sask. Mr. Moodie was to have gone to Richdale, but these plans were changed during the latter part of last week, and he left for Glenavon as stated.

Dr. G. R. Ross has closed his dental office here.

A. C. Anderson will sell by public auction, his farm-stock implements etc. at his farm S. E. 1/4 23-24 on Monday Sept. 29th. (One-half-mile East and two-and-a-half-miles South of Cappon School House) Sale to commence at 1 o'clock sharp. B. H. Dial, auctioneer.

There will be a meeting of the Junior U. F. W. A. at the home of Miss Myrtle McDonald on Saturday, September 27th.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Macchab left Oyen last Friday morning for the coast where they will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Desso left town last Friday for the States where they will visit friends and relatives during the coming winter.

J. C. Trickey, who returned with the 17th Battalion in the summer of 1918 and whose popularity was unbounded while he was here as an employee of the C.N.R. is in town this week. Mr. Trickey looks exceptionally well and does not appear to have suffered much at the hands of the Hun.

J. S. Thompson, Provincial Land Assessor, arrived in town from the Peace River district on Monday last. He reports some exceptionally good crops and that district a most settled settlement by returned soldiers is going on apace. Mr. Thompson expects to take his family with him to Edmonton this week.

Last Friday and Saturday two milliners vied with each other in the display and sale of fall millinery. Mrs. Ughland of Abouk made her headquarters at Mason and Naamith's store, while Miss Peers of Empress, displayed her goods at S. A. Miller and Co's store. Both ladies report having done good business and judging from the many happy faces we saw passing this office, it would appear that the ladies of this district were well satisfied with their purchases.

Mr. Lindsay C. Trickey wishes to thank the President and ladies of the Oyen Red Cross Society for their kindness in sending him Xmas parcels while overseas.

Rush Centre Women's Institute are putting on an unusual entertainment on Oct. 10th, in aid of school improvement. Four nationalities be represented in some dialogue tableaux.

There will be the usual lunch and to finish up—Pumpkin pie. It is expected that a good crowd will enjoy the evening performance.

Board of Trade Meeting

A Creamery for Oyen, Rural 'phones and Skating Rink Where Chief Topics for Discussion

At a meeting of the local Board of Trade, held on Monday night, a creamery rural 'phones, a skating rink, and the question of relief for families who will find themselves in distress before the winter is thro, were the chief topics for discussion.

Mr. Humphries of Benton, gave a talk on Creameries in general. He thought that the installation of a creamery here would be a benefit to the community as well as a profitable investment. The matter was referred to a committee, whose duty it will be to obtain particulars as to the cost of building, installation of necessary machinery etc., the amount of cream at present shipped from this and local districts and the views of the farmers as to the practicability and desirability of seeing the scheme gone ahead with. In this connection, the Board of Trade hope to hold an afternoon meeting at some future date when the farmers of the district will come in and discuss the matter.

The question of rural 'phones was discussed and the matter referred to a committee.

Wearing Apparel For Fire-fighters

In the present fire-fighting equipment, there is one necessary article missing; viz., a coat of some description to protect the clothing of those who handle the chemical apparatus while fighting a fire.

It would be useless, in a voluntary brigade such as ours, here, to have uniforms. The very fact that the town only has a chemical outfit for fire-fighting purposes, makes it essential that no time should be wasted in donning uniforms. The success of the apparatus and those taking part in fire-fighting operations depends almost entirely on the time it takes to get to the scene of the fire after an alarm has been given.

No time would be lost however, by a man throwing off his own coat and donning a coat which would protect the remainder of his clothing. Certainly, a man would think twice about ruining a good suit of clothes in an endeavor to save some building which was not his own. This may appear a rather selfish attitude, but it is a natural one and if indulged in spells inefficiency.

The time does not seem ripe for considering a high pressure water apparatus, but for a small outlay the local brigade would be encouraged to work with a zeal that might be lacking if the thought of the cost of a new suit of clothes hampered their efforts.

It is unreasonable to expect men to get out and fight fires and ruin their clothing without compensation. Surely then it would be good business to invest in a few coats to be kept at the fire-hall as part of the regular equipment.

Better Roads

Men who were overseas and took part in the "big push" during the autumn of 1918, will no doubt remember the numerous signs "Dry weather track." These referred to temporary roads constructed by labor battalions and infantry units (The latter doing this work, while out of the line on so-called "rests") under the supervision of the engineers.

These tracks were most useful; not being marked on the map, the Hun did not know they were there, and when he did "find" them, it was an easy matter to abandon them for some other track. Had the weather been bad, these tracks would have been useless, but as all readers of history know, the allied armies were favored with exceptionally fine weather (considering) during the last three months of the war.

Away from shell-fire, however, as every soldier knows, the French roads were serviceable in all kinds of weather. They stood up admirably in spite of the rough usage given them by the abnormal traffic brought by the war. What would have happened to our local roads under the same conditions? (We smile as we ask the question.) The roads in this locality are not as good as some of the "Dry weather tracks" we have seen in France, constructed by bank clerks, blacksmiths, grocers, bakers, real estate men, stenographers and even editors.

What can we infer from this? It is not sound argument to say that the conditions prevailing here are due to the fact that the country is still "new." In France they used to construct a good road over night, and sometimes it would get "blown to hell" before it was many days old, in which case, some of the battalions which were out of the line "roasting" would be given the joyful task of rebuilding it, under conditions that would often make your hair stand on end.

Surely then we have better roads, when there is no risk to life in the construction of same. Certainly we should have something better than a "Dry weather track." A good road is a road which is good in bad weather.

Start a "Better Roads" campaign and stay with it till something worthwhile is accomplished.

Change of Subjects

We've talked so long of shell and shot
Of captains and of kings
The time has come at last, I feel,
To speak of other things.
Let's turn our thoughts from Petrograd;
To places nearer home;
We need good roads and need them bad
And hence this stirring poem.

For years we've struggled through
The mud,
In wetness and grief,
And only said when we were stuck,
"It is no time to lie."
We floundered through the muddy pools,
Across the roofs and bays,
And lost our horses and our mules,
And hired our costly cars;
We said "until this shall cease
Our way must be disagreeable."
But, when arrived the dawn of peace,
We'll have good roads or bust.
We talked so long of battle fronts,
That we may find it hard
To turn to other milder stuff,
Our spirit may be jarred.

We've talked so long of Kaiser Bill,
That we may think it stale,
To talk of grading down the hill,
Or filling up a vale.
But it is wiser to talk good roads,
Instead of bones and bleach;
The farmers cannot haul their loads,
Because of caudles and
There is no bottom to the pike
When comes a sudden shower;
I cannot search as I would like,
At fifty miles an hour,
We've hopped so long on treason vile,
It's hard to break away;
But we should talk good roads awhile
And start the work to-day.
—Uncle Walt.

WEDDING

WOOD-KAVANAUGH

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Paul's Catholic church, in Saskatoon, on Saturday, Sept. 20, at 9 o'clock, when Miss Julia M. Kavanaugh of Washington, D.C., and Mr. Leon J. Wood, a well known citizen of this town, were the contracting parties. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Father Bowles of Oyen, who accompanied the bridegroom to Saskatoon, before the wedding took place.

The bridal party returned to town the following morning, and are now residing on First Ave. E.

The wedding was quite a romantic one. Mr. Wood's friends here will remember that he went to Rochester, Minn., about two years ago to undergo an operation at the Mayo Bros. hospital and it was while he was at this famous institution, that he met his present wife, who was a nurse in the hospital at that time.

The News, joins with Mr. Wood's host of friends in wishing the happy couple much joy and prosperity and expresses the hope that the bride will find a real home in this community.

"A Joan of Arc Machine"

"SHE withstood everything in the field and above all war, and still is, the last and only car to survive until the cessation of hostilities."—Extract from letter received by Ford Motor Company from a British Soldier, in Africa.

Over short-ten roads, through water, soaked fields, second only to the tanks in its power to climb debris and crater holes, the Ford car made a world famous record in the fighting area of the great war. In press despatches, in field reports, in letters, in rhyme and song the praises of the Ford were sounded.

In France 700 cars out of 1,000 were Fords
In Italy 350 cars out of 1,000 were Fords
In Egypt 300 cars out of 1,000 were Fords
In Mesopotamia 300 cars out of 1,000 were Fords

The Ford power plant that established this world-wide record in every theatre of the war remains the same. It will be in the Ford you buy.

We saw Jack McKenzie scratching himself at the street corner a few days ago, (which reminded us of the days we spent in France) so we went over to see what luck he was having. The cause of his activity turned out to be a spear grass, which he informed us "Was all the bally hay he had been able to raise this year."

"Dad" Desso says "Tell your wife a lie and she knows you are lying. If you tell the truth, she thinks you're lying!—So, what's the use?"

Some people take a delight in correcting other people's phonology, and there is no one who can do this so easily, without chance of a come-back, than a judge of the court. We heard a good one on a well-known lawyer, who in a fit of abstraction, while addressing the court, said ".... he was charged $55 a month for doting...."

Hereabouts the judge interrupted his oration. ("Nay, nay, my little boy," said he,—"or words to that effect.") "You mean, 'He was charged $55 a month for what he ate.'"

Another lawyer, while addressing the court said ".... my client keep a large stock of repairs...." "What's that?" his lordship yelled, "You mean parts with which to repair!" (Hereabouts the court was convulsed with subdued laughter.)

Editing a newspaper is a pleasant business—if you can stand it.

If it contains any advertisements, the subscribers claim they take too much space.

If there is a scarcity of advertising, it is unpopular and the people won't have it.

If we attend church regularly they say we do it for effect.

If we stay away from church they say we are monotonously heathenish.

If we accept an invitation to a wedding, they say we are invited to "write it up."

If we are on the street much they say we neglect our business.

If we avoid going on the streets, they say we don't hustle around after the news.

If we reject a long-winded communication, it's autograph comes furiously enraged and discontinues his paper.

If we publish lengthy communications our subscribers say we lack discretion, and put it in fill up.

If we omit jokes, they say we are poor, miserable fools.

If we are single they say we are too helpless to get married.

If we are married, they say it's a pity for our wives.

We are liable to receive these raps and many more, and we are always ready to receive visitors. Of course, we do not claim there is any work in running a newspaper. Everybody knows it's a snap.

Friday and Saturday At the Oyen Opera House

F. E. Todd announces that a new William S. Hart picture, "The Silent Man," produced by Thomas H. Ince for Arteroft, will be seen for the first time in this district at the Oyen Opera House on Friday and Saturday of this week.

In this stirring western play Hart has the role of a desert miner who has made a "rich find," and who has come to a small town in Arizona to register his location. The claim is "jumped," and Hart's efforts to recover his property form the basis of a drama that is full of overflowing with thrill, excitement and sensation.

Hart's appearance as a westerner have been many and varied since he deserted the speaking stage for motion pictures, and he attained a niche in the Hall of Fame that is peculiarly his own. He is the "single" adopted interpreter of western types, the only actor before the camera who is stamped with the "steering" mark of fidelity to western characters as they existed when the big country was young, when men were rough and rugged and virile, and when woman was protected, not by the strong arm of the law, as to-day, but by the sturdy arm of man.

Do not miss the opportunity afforded you of seeing this great western drama.

New C. N. R. Map

The Industrial and Resources Department of the Canadian National Railways has issued a new map showing the location of all C. N. R. lines, existing, under construction and projected, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, as well as other features revised and corrected up-to-date.

While the map is intended, primarily, for circulation in connection with the land settlement activities of the department, it is useful for general reference purposes and may be obtained by applying to Mr. Wardrop, Union Station, Winnipeg.

On the back of the map, facts regarding soil characteristics, approximate land prices, etc., in a few representative grain growing, dairying and stock raising districts are given for the information of prospective settlers.

Sibbald Books Ellison-White Lycium Attractions.

The enterprising business men of our neighbouring town have booked the Ellison-White Lycium attractions for a series of concerts and a lecture which will take place on the dates given below.

On Wednesday Sept. 24th, The Chicago Orchestral Entertainers, a concert party of four young ladies will open the season. This talented combination, are spoken very highly of and the program which they offer is sure to please. The combination of instruments used, violin, cello and piano is a happy one, and as a variation the fourth lady of the party is a soloist.

On Friday, Oct. 17th, The Beatrice Weller Co. will be the entertainers. On Saturday Nov. 1st The Appelo Concert Co., and on Thursday Nov. 13th The Little Hinchey Ladies.

As a final attraction there will be a lecture by E. E. Sargeant McEneaney to be given on a date which has not yet been fixed.

The Sibbald committee expect to arrange a dance after one or more of these performances.

A skating rink for the coming winter came under discussion and as it was apparent that nothing could be definitely settled at the meeting a committee was appointed to report on this matter at the earliest possible date. It was pointed out that preliminary work in the way of preparing the ground for flooding should be done before the ground becomes frozen.

Relief for families who will find themselves lacking the bare necessities of life before the winter is through was discussed at some length, and a resolution was passed that a petition be forwarded to the Attorney General's Dept., asking that a staying of fore-closing of mortgages in this district be granted, owing to the exceptional conditions prevailing, which make it impossible for many of the farmers to meet even the payment of interest on their liabilities. Further, that a letter be written to the local member of the provincial house, pointing out the necessity of some action being taken by the authorities in this connection, and the possibility of giving these cases road work to do, as a means of helping them through the winter months.
